Dear Alma,

Well here I am at last and glad to be here. I am writing to you while Mattie is getting dunnies.

After I left you last night I got right on the train like a good boy. I went to bed at 8:15 & read until 9:30 & then to sleep. I did not know anything more until we arrived in New York. It was snowing very hard when we left New York. We got into Providence about 7:30 A.M.

It was still snowing then.
I had to get up then & get ready to leave the train.

My brother Carl met
me at Back Bay station.
I took a train and here & got here at 10:00 a. m.
I went to the store where Lura works first & then over to see Mother. It sure is a grand & glorious feelin'
to be home once again.

Have got to make this just a note this time as Mother is waiting for me to go to the Hospital. Ann going to a church supper tonight. I ought to have a good time there.

3.

It is pretty cold here
to-day & quite a lot of snow. It isn't melting here like it does in Wash.

I will promise to write
more next time Alma.
Please write soon.

Tell Mrs. Aawell
that I took a good look at Wellesley for her, coming by this morning.

Please remember
me to everybody down there & don't forget your folks.
